Lebron James makes Guest Star Appearance at Westfield Parade

The national Westfield Parade has just taken place and attendants are screaming and crying in pure awe! The fascinating float resembling a can of beans glimmered in the sunlight, and rats flooded the streets. The mayor waltzed around town, throwing candy at babies. It was true sight to behold: until a special someone made a guest appearance.

Locals state that midway through the parade, a blinding light shine down from above, scalding everyone inside. Appearing to have come from the heavens, Lebron James appeared in the middle of the street, halting the parade. Witnesses hold that Lebron turned around, looking among the attendants of the parade, held his hands up high in the air, and screamed.

> “ Yeah, I don't remember... any of that happening. I personally have never been in Westfield and, in fact, dont know where that would be on a map. I'm not quite sure who said that, but it didn't happen. I find it absurd that I would have done all of that and suddenly forgot. Although, I do sleepwalk sometimes... ”

Impact on the Community

The people in Westfield are reeling, and completely outraged at the basketball star for his dodgy reply. Riots have broken out, and one woman states that Lebron had taken her son. The basketball community is deeply confused, and coaches are trying to discover the full story. Lebron has not recently attended any basketball tournaments after the backlash. More next week!
